About the author

Wilhelm Thaller, born in 1958, is Certified ATPL flight instructor, training pilots since 1987. More than half of his 12,000 hours of flight time experience has been flown with twin engine aircrafts, most of them jets. The other half is logged as instruction time operating as a flight instructor in all fields of training. His substantial knowledge about practical and theoretical aviation, especially qualifies him to write this book about the practical interpretation of the instruments.
